Reading Books with Toddlers

Note: Review the section in Curriculum Tips and Techniques on Reading Books with Children, for suggestions on how to use books with children.

Benchmarks: 4.5.C Shows enjoyment of books and stories
6.1.C Gains an understanding of basic concepts and relationships

Book: I Like Trees (OT) (See Attachment: I Like Trees)

First Reading of I Like Trees

- Collect items such as pine cones, pieces of bark and a small branch with leaves. Place the items in a bag.
- Say to the children, "I have some things in this bag that I need your help with."
- Bring out one item at a time and invite children who join you to name the items.
- Ask the children, "Where do you think this pine cone and this bark and this branch came from?" Guide them to see that all of the items came from a tree.
- Involve children in discussing trees. Ask questions such as, "Who has trees in their yard? Do you ever play under the tree? Do you help rake leaves that fall from trees?" If there are trees that children can see from your room, ask them to look out the window at the trees.
- Show the cover of the book and invite children to tell you what they see on the cover.
- Say the name of the book and say, "Let's find out why we like trees."
- Read each page and allow children time to comment. On the first page, point out the shaded area.
- Review the book by showing each page and inviting children to describe what is happening on that page.

Note: If children say the items in the bag came from the ground, for example, say, "Yes, I found them on the ground, but they came from a tree."

Second Reading of I Like Trees (YT & OT)

- Collect some simple toys such as small trucks and cars and plastic dishes and washable dolls that can easily be carried outdoors. Include a couple of books. Store the toys in a basket or tub with a cover so that children cannot see them. Place the container under a tree.
- Provide something to cover the ground such as a large sheet, blanket or vinyl tablecloth on which children can sit for story time.
- Explain to children that "When we go outside, we're going to read a book under our special tree. You can all sit on the sheet as you listen to the story."
- Guide the children to sit on the sheet.
- Show the cover and read the title.
- Read each page and allow children time to comment. Call attention to the page about reading a story under a tree and say, "That's what we're doing. We're reading a story under a tree."
- Follow up by showing the page about playing under a tree.
- Bring out the container with toys and invite children to say what they think is in it. For example, say, "I have some special things in this basket. They are things we can play with under our tree. What do you think they might be?" Accept all answers.
- Take toys out one at a time and invite children to say what they might do with the toy.
- Place the dishes and dolls and the books on the sheet and locate the small vehicles in another area.
- Guide children to select where they want to play.
- Sit on the sheet and begin to look at a book. Read with children who join you.

- Continue this experience only as long as children remain interested, then involve them in picking up the toys before moving on to another area of the playground.

Note: Provide a sufficient number of toys to take outdoors for the number of children in your group, plus a couple of extras so that children have choices.

Note: Consider forming two groups for this experience if there are two caregivers with the children. This will make it much easier to read a story to the children and to avoid conflict over toys.

Note: Place the basket of toys under the tree when children go outdoors on a hot day. Spread a sheet or cloth on the ground. Notice if children seem to be getting overheated and suggest that they play in the shade of the tree.

Note: Sing songs under the tree.

Note: Have snack or a picnic lunch under a tree.

Book: If I Were a Blue Bird

First Reading of If I Were a Blue Bird (YT & OT) (See Attachment: If I Were a Blue Bird)

- Go to the book area and say to children, "I'm going to read a book about a blue bird."
- Show the cover and read the title.
- Ask children if they have ever seen a blue bird. Where did they see it?
- Read the first page and ask children what they think the blue bird will see. Accept all answers.
- Turn the page and read "I'd see a red cow looking at me."
- Continue with the reading, inviting children to guess what they think the blue bird will see on the next page.
- Read the last page and, then point to each animal and invite the children to name it. Identify animals by color if children do not do so. For example, "That's a yellow duck."

Note: Consider asking Young Toddlers to point to a specific animal. For example, say, "Brennan, can you find the pink pig?"

Second Reading of If I Were a Blue Bird (YT & OT)

- Go to book area and say to children, "I'm going to read a book about a blue bird and all of the animals she sees."
- Show the cover and read the title.
- Read each page, inviting children to predict which animal the blue bird will see.
- Read the last page and invite children to name each animal.

Extension:

- Involve children in making the sound of each animal in the book. This can be done as you read each page and/or on the last page of the book.

- Place the tree on a felt or magnetic board before you begin singing the song.
- Place leaves one at a time on the tree branches as you sing the song.

Extension:

- Invite children to place the leaves on the tree when you feel they are ready for this.

Note: Leaves and tree truck and branches can be made from felt.

Five Yellow Birds

(Make appropriate motions to go with the words)

I looked up in a big oak tree (Pretend to look up in tree)
And saw five yellow birds looking down at me. (Hold up 5 fingers)
One yellow bird sang a pretty song, (Pretend to sing as you hold up one finger)
Flapped his yellow wings (Flap arms)
And then he was gone. (Fly one hand away)

I looked up in a big oak tree
And saw four yellow birds looking down at me.
One yellow bird sang a pretty song,
Flapped his yellow wings
And then he was gone.

I looked up in a big oak tree
And saw three yellow birds looking down at me.
One yellow bird sang a pretty song,
Flapped his yellow wings
And then he was gone.

I looked up in a big oak tree
And saw two yellow birds looking down at me.
One yellow bird sang a pretty song,
Flapped his yellow wings
And then he was gone.

I looked up in a big oak tree
And saw one yellow bird looking down at me.
One yellow bird sang a pretty song,
Flapped his yellow wings
And then he was gone.

I looked up in a big oak tree
And saw no yellow birds looking back at me.
No yellow birds singing a pretty song,
Nor flapping their wings
Because they're all gone.

Extension

- Make a tree with branches and five yellow birds. Back the figures with either a strip of felt or a magnetic strip.
- Place the tree on a storyboard. Add the five yellow birds.
- Remove one bird at a time as you say the rhyme with the children.
- Ask children if they would like the birds to come back to the tree. If they say, "Yes," add one bird at a time, counting them from one to five.

None: Invite one child at a time to either remove or add a bird to the tree when you feel children are ready for this.

Note: Continue the motions as described in the first verse for the remainder of the verses, changing the number of fingers to match the number of birds in each verse.

Oak Tree

Here is an oak tree, straight and tall                   (Stand up tall)
And here are its branches wide.                         (Put arms up into the air, fingers outstretched)

Here is a nest of twigs and moss                         (Cup hands together)
With three little birds inside.                         (Hold up 3 fingers)

The breezes blow, the branches sway                 (Move arms gently to and fro)
The babies are rocked to sleep that way.           (Pretend to sleep)

The Apple Tree

Way up high in an apple tree, (Hold hands above head, form circles with thumb & forefinger of each hand. Smile.)
Two red apples smiled down at me.

I shook that tree as hard as I could (Put hands out as if on a tree and shake)
Down came those apples, (Hands above head and lower to ground)

And Mmmmmmmmm were they good. (Rub tummy)

- Keep one set of the leaves and invite each child to select a leaf from the other set.

Materials: sandwiches cut in half and stored in a self-close plastic bag, small containers of juice with straws, small non-breakable plates, napkins, picnic basket, tray, plate for sandwiches, sheet or vinyl cloth to cover the ground, small plastic bag for garbage

How to begin:

- Ask a co-worker to spread the sheet on the ground before you and the children go outdoors.
- Show the children the page in the book, I Like Trees, about having a picnic.
- Explain to children that all of you will have a picnic under their special tree.
- Involve the children in preparing for the picnic by inviting them to place some of the items in the basket. For example, you can have each child's name on his or her container of juice and invite the child to place the container in the basket.
- Involve children in naming the different items as they are placed in the basket.
- Listen for their comments about previous picnic experiences and respond to what they say. "Nikki said she and her brother went on a picnic in the park with their daddy. Do you remember some of the things you took on your picnic, Nikki?"

Two little pine cones
Oh, so brown
Touched Susan and Andrew's heads
As it fell to the ground.

Extension:

Note: Consider using two real pine cones if they are available.

---

Match This Leaf

- Use leaves from the Leaf Match experience.
- Keep one set of the leaves and invite children to select a leaf.
- Show your leaf and say, "I'm looking for someone who has a red leaf just like mine. Yes, Leandra, you have a red leaf just like mine. Give me your red leaf and go with Ms. Betty to wash your hands for lunch."
- Continue this until each child has been transitioned.

Extension:

- Show two leaves of different colors if you wish to transition more than one child at a time.

Note: Adapt other finger plays previously listed as transitions to move children from one activity or place to another.

Family Experiences

- Invite families to collect and bring to the center magazines or catalogs that contain pictures of trees.
- Suggest that families plan experiences with their child under a tree in their yard, in the neighborhood or community park: a picnic, reading a book, or looking for birds, for example. If they take photos of the event, ask them to share the photos with you so that you share them with the other children.
- Plan a family picnic under your special tree. Invite families to join you and the children for a story, a song and a picnic lunch.
